$50,000 depot planned

Waveland bumps Bay as N.O. Fair train stop

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Waveland will replace Bay St. Louis as the Hancock County stop for the World's Fair Coast commuter train between New Orleans and Mobile.

"My balloon has popped," Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett said yesterday, reacting to the decision to place the depot in Waveland.

Debbie Marciniak, Amtrak's manager of corporate communications for the Midwest, confirmed the decision Wednesday from the Washington, D.C. Amtrak offices.

She said it was her understanding that the City of Bay St. Louis offered $50,000 to improve the station at Bay St. Louis, but the City of Waveland made a proposal to Tri-State Rapid Rail Transit Commission to provide station facilities there.

"Tri-State Commission made the decision to move the stop to Waveland, with Amtrak's concurrence," she said.

The decision was reached last month, according to Marciniak.

Waveland Mayor John Longo was out of his office and could not be reached for details about the location, cost and construction startup date for the train station.

Delmer Wilcox of Waveland, a member of the Tri-State Commission which initiated proposals for the service, is recuperating in New Orleans from recent surgery and also could not be reached for comments.

Bennett said he has been trying to get a commuter train started since 1977.

He said he has seen pictures of old stations like the one in Bay St. Louis after they have been renovated and landscaped, and when he thought the train stop would be set for Bay St. Louis, "I was like a peacock with a new set of feathers."

Bennett said it was his understanding that Waveland has offered to construct a station there 'to the tune of about $50,000.'

"I'm happy to know that the train has become a reality," he said.

"But I'm very disappointed to know that the fares will be as expensive as they are."

"Because of the economy, I'm afraid a lot of people will have to take a second thought about using the train."

"I'm beginning to wonder if the excursion train will go over as well as we had expected it to."

Fares for the train, to be known as the Gulf Coast Ltd., were announced earlier this week.

According to Marciniak, regular one-way adult fares will be Waveland to New Orleans, $10.50; Gulfport to New Orleans, $13; Biloxi to New Orleans, $15; Pascagoula to New Orleans, $18.50; and Mobile to New Orleans, $24.

Round-trip fares will be twice the one-way fares and children's tickets will cost half as much as adult tickets.

But a special round-trip introductory fare will be offered from April 25 through May 31, she said.

Since travel may be taken within 30 days of purchase, the introductory tickets may be used through June.

The special round-trip tickets will cost $16 from Bay St. Louis, $19.50 from Gulfport, $22.50 from Biloxi, $28 from Pascagoula and $36 from Mobile.

The train will begin operations April 29 and will run until Sept. 30.

Operation beyond that time will depend on the willingness of the states of Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana to continue funding.

Funding for the train is being shared by the three states and Amtrak.

Wilcox said last month that the three states will contribute about $150,000 each for the five-month operation of the train.

Marciniak said the train will make one round trip daily, but a firm schedule has not yet been set.

"My best guess for determining the actual time schedule is the end of February," she said.

Efforts to raise the speed limit for trains traveling along the Coast on Seaboard System railroad tracks, which the Gulf Coast Ltd. will use, were thwarted in Gulfport Tuesday when the City Council voted to keep that city's limit at 30 miles per hour.

The Bay St. Louis City Council, at Wilcox' request, adopted a resolution in mid-November to raise speed limits for railway traffic from 35 to 45 miles per hour.

The Waveland City Council has not yet acted on a similar request.

Assessor consultant visiting businesses

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A representative of the Hancock County assessor-tax collector's office is now visiting local businesses to assess 'tangible personal property' as part of the ongoing countywide re-appraisal program.

Edward Murtagh Jr., county assessor-tax collector, said Wednesday afternoon that John Lewis, formerly of Madison County, is working as county consultant on personal property and now visiting Bay St. Louis and Waveland businesses to assess tangible personal property.

"Lewis is looking at this inventory to help us form a tax base," Murtagh stated.

The assessor said Lewis will look at any items utilized to help support the operation of a business such as desks, counters, equipment, sprinkler and alarm systems.

Murtagh said before inspecting a business establishment, Lewis must produce identifying documentation signed by A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, County Board of Supervisors president and the assessor.

The identification documents include Lewis' name and photograph and his automobile will be marked "Hancock County Appraisal," Murtagh added.

Lewis is not inspecting the inside of any homes, but if anyone is doubtful of the credibility of anyone identifying themselves as a county inspector they should contact the County Sheriff's Department or the assessor's office, Murtagh advised.

The consultant will visit all Hancock business establishments during the next three months, the assessor said.

Bay Council okays car for mayor's official use

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
The Bay St. Louis City Council voted unanimously Tuesday to approve Councilman Sheldon Seuzeneau's motion that the city furnish an automobile for Mayor Larry Bennett.

The car Bennett will use for official business is a 1981 Plymouth which the city purchased last November for $2,100 at a Mississippi Highway Patrol auction.

Bennett said yesterday the city provided an automobile allowance for the mayor until state officials prohibited that procedure.

Since then, Bennett has submitted a monthly mileage report for reimbursement for official travel.

Bennett said it is standard practice in Mississippi communities for city governments to provide vehicles for full-time mayors.

He noted that vehicles are also provided by government entities for county supervisors, Civil Defense and school superintendents.

In other business, City Attorney Joseph Gex advised the council that he had spoken with Hancock Community Cable General Manager Jake Jacob, and that Jacob will meet with council members at their first meeting in February with a 'complete presentation' regarding possible expansion of cable television service.

Council President Wilmer Seymour said he hoped the company will be able to extend its services to other areas of the city.

He said he continues to receive numerous complaints from residents who want cable TV and can't get it.

"They've got their hands out ready to pay," he said. "I can't understand why the company can't do something to provide the service."

Also Tuesday, the council appointed Conrad Mauffray, Carl Arnold, and Charles Gottschalk as city election commissioners for a term ending in June, 1985.

Bid openings were held Tuesday for Phase 8 of the federally-funded 1983 Housing Rehabilitation Project.

The bids include rehabilitation, pest control, insulation, and heating and air-conditioning for the homes of Edward Whavers, Louise Nash, Norbert Brune, Elwell Dussor, Willie Carbonette, Patricia Caspolich, Luther Johnson, Sarah Williams, Marilyn Smith and Roland Riez.

All bids were taken under advisement except for rehabilitation for the home of Louise Nash.

The council accepted the sole bid of $10,000 submitted by Ronnie Artigues for rehabilitation of the Nash home, contingent upon his assurance in writing that he will bring the house up to code for that amount, which is less than the estimated rehabilitation cost.

The other bids for the project will be acted upon at a 5:30 p.m. council meeting today.

County school board seeks poll move

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Hancock County School Board is asking the County Board of Supervisors to move voting areas from three schools and relinquish its lease on a softball field in Pearlington.

At a recess meeting Tuesday night, the board unanimously approved a resolution asking the supervisors to move polling areas from Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlington, Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshore, and the Clermont Harbor School, which is a branch of the Gulfview facility.

Terrell Randolph, county superintendent of education, told the school board that Principals Phillip Terrell of CBM and William Haddock of Gulfview, both complained the elections disrupt classes at the schools.

Sue Dean, school district office secretary, reported that voting activities at the school's gymnasiums are also disrupting classes and resulting in additional heating costs.

Randolph said Terrell reported the recent frequent elections are disrupting physical education classes at the Pearlington school.

Due to overcrowded conditions, classes meet in the Gulfview gymnasium.

He said the fifth grade and special education classes at Clermont Harbor have to close on election days.

The superintendent reported the U.S. Justice Department must approve any changes in precinct voting locations.

Regarding the softball field at CBM, Randolph read a letter to the board from Terrell which reported the Pearlington Booster Club is now inactive and would like to cancel its sublease of the field.

Terrell states in the letter that if an organization is interested in leasing the field during the summer months for softball activities, that could be arranged.

Randolph said the county supervisors leased the field from the school district to legally justify a light installation project there.

"I think the board of supervisors is willing to turn the field back over to the school because we are in a better position to regulate activities in the field which is adjacent to the school," he stated.

The superintendent recommended the board pass a resolution asking the supervisors to relinquish its lease.

The board unanimously approved the action.

Regarding overcrowded classes in the district, Randolph reported a tentative Feb. 11 meeting will school officials will discuss new classroom and renovation needs in Hancock.

But Billie Fay Lyons, school board president, said Wednesday the board may conduct a 'workshop' to discuss these needs prior to the first regularly scheduled February meeting.

At the Tuesday night meeting, school district patron Pat Patterson said eight new classrooms are needed at Gulfview which now has 535 students.

He fears when the Amtrak passenger train service begins in a few months in conjunction with the 1984 New Orleans World Exposition that one of these faster moving trains could collide with the school bus which crosses the Seaboard System Railroad tracks four times each school day to bring Gulfview students to and from the Clermont school.

Patterson also reported two eighth-grade classes are meeting in the school cafeteria and study halls are conducted in the Gulfview gymnasium.

Randolph added that all district schools have classes meeting in cafeterias.

The school patron also believes that 50 additional students from the Shoreline Park area will be attending district schools beginning in the next school year and add to the problem.

Recently, the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees voted to accept students from an area of Shoreline Park near the Waveland city limits only if they pay tuition.

J.D. McCullough, Bay superintendent of education, recently explained that the municipal district in the past had accepted the students because the border between county and city

Two Jr. Food robberies apparently unrelated

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Law enforcement officials see no connection between two armed robberies of area Jr. Food Stores earlier this week.

Suspects have been arrested in the robbery of the store at Second Street and US-90 in Bay St. Louis.

There are as yet no leads in the robbery of the store at Nicholson Avenue and US-90 in Waveland.

The first robbery, in Bay St. Louis, occurred about 11:50 p.m. Monday, according to Bay Police Chief Douglas Williams.

Williams said a man armed with a blue steel revolver entered the store and demanded that the clerk open the safe.

After the robbery, the armed man left in a vehicle with another man.

Following a phone call about 4 a.m., police arrested Robert Maurigi, 21, of 141 Julia St., Bay St. Louis, and Robert J. Fayard, 21, of Falkville, Ala. at the Bay Side apartment complex.

The men were first charged with public drunkenness, but Williams said one man seemed to match a description of the gunman in the holdup earlier that night.

Following an investigation by Bay Investigators Murray Ladner and Joe Pica, Maurigi and Fayard were also charged with armed robbery.

Assisting in the arrest were Captain Robert Butler, Lt. John Rester, and Patrolman Edward Prendergast of the Bay St. Louis Police Department. Investigator Robert Tartavouille of the Waveland Police Department and Investigator Delbert Seay of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Williams said that of the $330 taken in the robbery, some $225 has been recovered.

Maurigi and Fayard are being held at the Hancock County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

The Waveland robbery occurred about 3 a.m. Tuesday, Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn reported.

A man wearing a ski mask and jumpsuit and carrying a small handgun fled on foot after taking $657 from the clerk. Dorn said the suspect is white and about five feet six inches tall.

Because of the ski mask, the clerk was unable to give further details about his description.

Williams noted this is the second armed robbery of a Bay St. Louis Jr. Store in the last two months in which a suspect has been arrested within hours after the crime was committed.

The Veterans Administration has inaugurated a special toll-free, telephone information hotline for former prisoners of war, officials recently announced.

The hotline has been established for ex-POW's to inform the VA if they feel they are not being recognized as ex-POW's at VA medical centers or regional offices, or if they feel their treatment is not consistent with the intent of the Prisoners of War Health Care Benefits Act of 1981.

The 24-hour toll-free number

1-800-821-6139 is available to more than 93,000 ex-POW's nationwide and will be staffed by a select group of POW specialists from the Washington, D.C. Regional Office during regular business hours.

After-hours and weekend callers may leave a recorded message on the hotline.

The new information hotline will supplement the existing toll-free services provided for all veterans to VA regional offices nationwide. It will also assist the ex-POW coordinators assigned at all 172 VA medical centers.

Information and assistance on VA benefits may be obtained by contacting the Jackson VA Regional Office between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The statewide toll-free number is 1-800-682-5270.

FAT LOVABLE BABY—Kittyroo is the name of this beautiful two-year-old brindle calico now at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland. She has been spayed, has all shots, and is fat and healthy. This big baby loves attention from children and adults, particularly someone who will give her a good belly scratch now and then. Kittyroo just loves an occasional snack of cooked chicken, but regularly eats dry cat food. She was left for adoption by her family which moved and could not take the cat along. For adoption information telephone 467-5003 soon before this beautiful pet is painlessly destroyed. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

ASCS NEWS

In compliance with 1983 farm legislation, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service announced the new Milk Diversion Program, effective January 1.

The new program establishes an incentive payment for eligible dairy farmers of $10 per hundredweight to reduce their commercial milk sales, according to Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office.

To be eligible for the program, the farmer must establish a milk base and submit a milk reduction plan to the ASCS office no later than Jan. 27, and sign a USDA milk diversion contract by Jan. 31.

He said other eligibility standards require the farmer to be a milk producer in one of the 48 contiguous states; be actively engaged in milk production as of Nov. 29, 1983; and not have transferred to any person, dairy cows which would or could have been used for milk production in the U.S., after Nov. 8, except as allowed in the transfer provisions of the program.

The milk base is determined from the producer's 1982 commercial milk marketings, or the average of such marketings for 1981 and 1982, whichever the milk producer selects. Under the contract, the milk producer must reduce milk marketings from 5 to 30 percent between Jan. 1, 1984 and March 31, 1985. The milk reduction plans shows how the producer plans to achieve the required milk marketing reductions and includes an estimate of the portion of the reduction to be achieved through increased slaughter of dairy cows, including the number of dairy cows to be sold for slaughter during each month of the contract.

The ASCS official said there is no dollar limit on the amount of incentive payment a producer may earn for complying with the milk diversion contract. However, no producer may receive payment for reductions in the amount of milk marketed commercially which is in excess of 30 percent of the milk base. Dairy farmers are required to accurately report their marketings to ASCS for the contract period.

Gennin said producer compliance will be audited by the U.S. Department of Agriculture from the beginning to detect problems and minimize improprieties.

Further details on the Milk Diversion Program may be obtained from the local ASCS office.

SS increases may affect eligibility for food stamps

Food stamp benefits may change for households whose members receive Social Security and/or Supplemental Security Income because of a 3.5 percent cost-of-living increase which was reflected in checks issued by the Social Security Administration in January.

A change in a recipient's income can affect eligibility or the amount of benefits.

County food stamp office staff are now reviewing the food stamp cases of all Social Security and Supplemental Security Income recipients.

State Department of Public Welfare officials say all food stamp households were informed of the possibility of a change in their food stamp benefits at the time they received their January coupon allotment.

Food stamp recipients may contact their worker if they have any questions concerning the review of their case.

Food stamp regulations for the monthly reporting procedure are now final, according to the State Department of Public Welfare.

Food stamp households who have been added to the list of households already participating in monthly reporting will receive their forms Feb. 1.

Monthly reporting is a federal regulation that requires certain food stamp households to file monthly reports on their circumstances to the county welfare department.

Food stamp households that have members with earned income or members who have worked within the past three months are required to participate in monthly reporting. These households must report, on their monthly reporting form, information about their income, number of persons in the household and any changes they expect to have during the month.

Monthly reporting does not relieve food stamp recipients of the responsibility of reporting other changes within ten days of the time the change is known.

Households have to report if they move and their shelter expenses change, if they have an elderly or disabled member whose medical expenses change by more than $25 per month, if a household member obtains a licensed vehicle and if the household's monetary resources exceed $1,500.

Changes can be reported in person, by telephone or by mail.

Quotables by CUEVAS

As some of you already know, it is Girl Scout Cookie Sale time.

Young girls from some of the areas 19 troops are out selling cookies as a fund raiser.

This is an annual drive and we hope it will again be successful.

The Girl Scouts will be taking cookie orders until January 21, and will be delivering between February 17 and March 3.

Over the years the cookies sold by the scouts have been so delicious, and it sure makes it hard on folks trying to lose a little weight.

We know Shawn Tusa, 1984 Neighborhood chairman is looking forward to the scouts taking many orders. So help a worthy cause.

We have noticed the tremendous improvement of Main Street in Bay St. Louis at night with the new lights from Second Street to Beach Boulevard.

It is also good news to hear about the Bay Mayor and Council considering additional lights within the business district.

The lights remind us of those which were used many years near the old Louisville and Nashville Depot in Bay St. Louis.

Several citizens have commented on the improvements the new lights have contributed to the downtown area.

We will be looking forward to the new proposed lights.

Congratulations are in order for Bay St. Louis native Mickey Ladner upon being selected as 'Trooper of the Year' for the Criminal Investigation Bureau of the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

We have known Ladner and his parents Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Ladner for many years.

We know Ladner works very hard at his job with the Highway Patrol and wish him continued success in the years ahead.

Basketball action should be full steam ahead starting tonight with the Annual Bay High Invitational Tournament.

The many basketball games are scheduled at the Tiger Dome on Green Meadow Road.

The Lady Tigers of Bay High are undefeated this season and are really contenders to take the tourney.

Likewise in the Boys Tourney, Bay High's Tigers are serious contenders only having lost two games this season.

Action gets underway at 3:45 p.m. today in girls action when Pass High and St. Martin tangle.

Friday's action will have a girls game at 5 p.m.; boys game 6:15 p.m. girls game 7:30 p.m.; and boys game at 8:30 p.m.

The championship game in the girls division will be at 7 p.m. Saturday followed with the boys division at 8:30 p.m.

The girls contenders include Bay High, St. Martin, Pass High, Hancock North Central, Long Beach and Picayune.

Boys action will involve Bay High, Hancock North Central, St. Stanislaus, Pass Christian, Long Beach, St. Martin, and Picayune.

We hope the Tiger Dome will be filled with fans interested in some very good high school basketball on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Hope to see you at the tourney.

Main Street marred by errant trash

1-5-84

To the Editor:

The problem I wish to address here is so blatant that I kept thinking it would be taken care of long before I got around to writing this letter, but it hasn't, so here goes:

When the city began the work on Main Street so many months ago, it removed a large cyclone fence in the rear of the Dollar General Store on Main and Beach.

This fence had been installed by the company itself to contain the many packing boxes the store puts out for trash pickup.

From what I've been told, the city promised to replace the fence when the street and sidewalk work was completed. That they have failed to keep this agreement is all too evident: large stacks of boxes cover the sidewalk and blow up and down the street in windy weather.

Power of the state not recommended for use by religious organizations

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, entitled 'Keeping Politics Out Of Religion' by John B. Rae, emeritus professor of the history of technology at Harvey Mudd College, is submitted to The Sea Coast Echo by Public Research, Syndicated of Claremont, CA.

Theme: The line between church and state has often been somewhat fuzzily drawn, but the churches can be counted on to resist any intrusion of the state on their side of the boundary; they need to be equally alert to any effort, however well-intended, to drag them over to the state's side of the line.

"The role of religion is to appeal to the conscience of the individual, not to invoke the coercive power of the state."

This statement comes from a speech delivered several months ago by Senator Edward Kennedy in a somewhat surprising setting for him, the Rev. Jerry Falwell's Liberty Baptist College.

It is not known whether Kennedy's stricture was intended only for fundamentalist, or Moral Majority churches.

He did not say so, and therefore we have to assume that he was stating a general principle, applicable also to those religious bodies whose dedication to the concept of the 'Social Gospel' has led them repeatedly to seek the attainment of political objectives that require invoking "the coercive power of the state."

Those of us who consider ourselves to be believers but look askance at much of what passes as "social action" have been pleading in terms of "keeping religion out of politics."

Unfortunately we have grasped the wrong end of the stick. What we really want is to keep politics out of religion.

If our faith is really meaningful, then we must as individuals apply it to every aspect of our lives, including our political choices.

Organized religion has always been in politics; Christianity at least since the conversion of Constantine (which was arguably the worst thing that could have happened to the early Christian church).

Here in this country churches played a leading role in the crusade against slavery, and in our century, less happily, in Prohibition.

And, as we are acutely aware, they have been proponents of social reform in various ways, not always wisely.

There is nothing wrong with such activities by churches and church people, provided they are a genuine outgrowth of the individual's own deep-seated faith.

It is right for believers to work for peace and social justice because their faith tells them that this is what God wants of them.

It is not right, however, for any individual or group to seek to use churches and their members as instruments for the promotion of specific political and economic causes that at best are marginally related to religious belief; there is a regrettably large number of such people, including, unfortunately, a great many denominational bureaucrats—what Russell Kirk terms "church mice."

This is what I mean by "keeping politics out of religion." The excuse that is offered is always the same: it is a worthy cause and/or it is a moral issue.

It is too easy to attach the label of "moral issue," and it is done much too freely. We all want to avoid nuclear war, but is it really a moral question whether we see a nuclear freeze or some other form of arms control as the most promising way to go about it?

Is there a moral choice between supply-side and Keynesian economics well-being?

Even where there are strong moral convictions, as with abortion, does either side have right to impose its standards on the other by legislative fiat?

In his Lynchburg speech, Kennedy pointed out the risk in this kind of approach: today's majority may become tomorrow's minority and find its own sanctions turned against it.

This idea is not original with the senator. The experience reverberates through history: methods devised to promote a good cause can be used equally well to promote a bad one.

Shakespeare put his finger on the problem in "The Merchant of Venice." In the courtroom scene, Bassanio pleads with the judge (Portia, of course): "To do a great right, do a little wrong," and she wisely replies, "It must not be; 'twill be recorded as a precedent; and many an error, by the same example, will rush into the state."

Religious bodies, of course, should

Inclement weather, street construction causing severe pedestrian inconvenience

Bay St. Louis

Jan. 16, 1984

Letter to the Editor

Due to the unusual bad weather and the problems between the front of project on the Old Spanish Trail where the walks and yards between the Trail and office building is all but impossible due to the work done during the holidays, the fences down, trees pulled up, and gravel placed due to the work on the sewer, with the rain continuing it's all but impossible.

I'm sure that some way should be made for the school children, the small ones whom have no idea that they could fall and get hurt beside ruining their shoes and clothes.

The high school girls and boys ruining their clothes and shoes, with the same chance of falling; most teens like to go to school looking their best and not ruining their shoes walking through the mud and water.

They like to help their parents by taking care of their clothes.

How long this weather or situation is going to go on only God knows—but I'm sure there's some way to help the children in this situation.

Union Street is paved and it is only one block before Louis Piernas Drive.

Teenagers like to get to school looking their best and with weather it's impossible.

Could they be picked up on Union Street which is paved and less chance of getting hurt until the way here is finished? It had to be done.

Since it's causing a hardship on families; keeping their children in clothes which mean so much to their parents believe me I know I had 10 children in school all grown now with the some problems.

Thank you;
Rita Beatrice Favre

not allow the threat of possible persecution to deter them from what they believe to be right. That is unarguable, but it is not the same thing as letting themselves be conned into the deceptively easy tactic of achieving their goals by passing laws.

The power of the state is fundamentally the power of the sword, or as Mao Tse Tung put it in more modern terms: that power comes from the barrel of a gun. In our free societies we have undertaken to limit the use of this power, yet in the last analysis the maintenance of law ultimately depends on force.

History has a grim record as regards the use of coercive power to impose beliefs or moral standards. Coercion can produce compliance, but never conviction, and the results of such efforts have been failure at best, catastrophe at worst.

Witness the bitter religious wars, internal and external, that accompanied the Reformation and accomplished nothing but mutual exhaustion and grudging acceptance of each party's right to exist.

It was to avoid any such experience that the separation of church and state was embedded in our constitutional system.

The line between church and state has often been somewhat fuzzily drawn, but the churches can be counted on to resist any intrusion of the state on their side of the boundary; they need to be equally alert to any effort, however well-intended, to drag them over to the state's side of the line.

The coercive power of the state is a necessary instrument, and it can be beneficial, which is why well-meaning people can be strongly tempted to use it.

But this power should carry a prominent label: "Danger! Handle with Care," with perhaps an additional warning that it is not recommended for use by religious organizations.

Traffic deaths still high

Twelve fewer people died as a result of automobile crashes in Mississippi during 1983 than in 1982, the Mississippi Highway Patrol reported recently.

Year end traffic death statistics show county roads were more dangerous for Mississippi motorists during 1983 than were city streets or state and federal highways.

Figures supplied by the statistical branch of the Mississippi Highway Patrol show fatal traffic accidents occurring on county roads increased by 45 percent. In 1983, 224 people were killed on county roads compared to 154 in 1982.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol effected a nine percent fatality reduction on highways under its jurisdiction during 1983.

Overall 716 people were killed in traffic deaths during 1983 compared to 728 for 1982.

The Highway Patrol recorded 350 deaths that occurred on state and federal highways in 1983 which is 34 fewer deaths on those roads and highways than took place in 1982.

A 25 percent decrease in traffic deaths was recorded for city streets with 142 fatalities for 1983 and 190 for 1982.

Observe Eye Care Month with glaucoma test

Medical doctors who are ophthalmologists (eye physicians and surgeons) are observing January as Eye Health Care Month in a statewide effort to reduce the incidence of unnecessary blindness in Mississippi.

According to William C. Mayfield, M.D., president of the Mississippi Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Association, 47,000 persons become blind each year—and the National Society to Prevent Blindness reports that half of all blindness is preventable.

"One of the primary causes of unnecessary blindness is glaucoma," Dr. Mayfield said.

Public vigilance can greatly reduce the incidence of glaucoma, he said.

Glaucoma is a disease of the eye in which pressure inside the eye is higher than it should be. A dangerous myth concerning glaucoma is the belief that you may be warned of its presence by eye pain, seeing halos around lights or excessive tearing.

The most common type of glaucoma causes no pain or symptoms, Dr. Mayfield said.

"If diagnosed and treated early glaucoma can be controlled and sight can be saved," the physician reported.

"After about age 45, everyone should have a glaucoma check annually, whether or not glasses or contacts are worn," he concluded.

Pass resident arrested for prescription forgery

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
A Pass Christian resident was arrested Monday on three charges of prescription forgery, according to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Alvin Ladner.

Ladner said Tuesday that additional charges will probably be forthcoming from police departments in Gulfport and Long Beach.

Stephen Niolet, 22, of 9 Evangeline Drive is accused of stealing a prescription pad last Sunday afternoon from the emergency room at Hancock General Hospital.

He allegedly had four prescriptions filled after stealing the pad.

Ladner said when Niolet attempted to obtain Percodan and Valium at Big B Drugs in Waveland, the pharmacist refused to fill the prescriptions because they lacked a physician's identification number.

The pharmacist called the physician to verify the prescriptions and the physician, realizing the pad was missing, notified the sheriff's department.

Sheriff's officers located the other prescriptions after notifying area drug stores.

The Harrison County Sheriff's Department assisted in arresting Niolet at his home, Ladner said.

Ladner said Niolet is now in Hancock County Jail under a $3,000 bond.

Hancock jail escapee arrested in Louisiana

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Charles Teague of Waveland, 32, one of four men who escaped from the Hancock County Jail Oct. 21, was arrested Monday in Westwego, La.

Hancock Sheriff's Department Investigator Alvin Ladner said Tuesday that information received here about Teague's whereabouts was forwarded to Jefferson Parish sheriff's deputies. They then apprehended the man, who apparently was working in Westwego.

The other three men who escaped in October were apprehended within days after their escape.

At the time of his escape Teague was serving a ten-year sentence resulting from a 1982 conviction on burglary charges.

He had not been transferred to the state penitentiary because his case was being appealed.

Teague, who has escaped from jail three times, is being held at the Jefferson Parish jail.

He has refused to waive extradition, Ladner said, and extradition proceedings were to begin Tuesday.

According to Ladner, Teague's escape may cause him to forfeit his right to an appeal. If so, Ladner said, authorities from the state penitentiary can take him directly from Westwego to Parchman.

Tax forms available at Hancock libraries

All branches of the Hancock County Library System have bulk supplies of the 30 most commonly used IRS tax forms and publications, as well as Mississippi state tax forms, according to Prima Wusnack, library system director.

The three libraries also have on file reference copies of the more than 100 specialized IRS forms, instructions, and publications needed by individuals and businesses. These are supplied by the IRS in reproducible form and can be photocopied by the person needing them, she noted.

"We also have specialized forms needed by employers such as W-2's and employee withholding tax charts," said Wusnack.

Of special interest are several publications that will assist the public with their tax returns. Publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax," contains helpful information on preparing an individual tax return. Publication 225, "Farmer's Tax Guide" explains how the federal tax laws apply to farming and can be used to figure taxes when filling out a farm return.

"Publication 334, 'Tax Guide for Small Business' describes the major forms of business organization and explains the tax responsibilities of each.

Wusnack points out that library employees can not answer tax law questions or assist taxpayers in preparing tax returns.

"However, we will be happy to provide information on IRS services available to help the public prepare tax returns and offer information on where to get additional help, if necessary," she said.

Hancock County libraries are located in Bay St. Louis on US-90, Waveland on Coleman Avenue, and in Kiln on Hwy. 603.

Polls

districts had not been clearly established.

The Bay trustees decided to ask for funds for the construction of a new school building because the county school board took no action regarding a Bay proposal in which it would grant the county a portion of the Idlewood area in exchange for the Shoreline territory.

Randolph, at the Tuesday night meeting, said many of the Shoreline students in question could conceivably continue to attend Bay schools.

But Patterson disagreed and stated, "Bay St. Louis doesn't want them, you know that! And if you think the families in that area are financially able to pay tuition... no!"

Bay schools are also experiencing crowding problems in its elementary schools and a Shoreline Park elementary school has been proposed by McCullough.

Patterson also said many Gulfview students must share their locker with one or two other students due to the overcrowding.

Randolph cited the board's planned special meeting and said matching State Educational Finance Commission funds are needed for the construction work.

Patterson asked, "Don't you all have a lot of money resting that you could do this?"

Randolph replied, "We don't have a lot of money."

The superintendent said that the legislatively-imposed scheduled consolidation of school districts could affect Hancock public school regarding student population distribution among the schools.

In another matter, Randolph reported the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools at its Dec. 12 meeting in Atlanta approved AA accreditation for all of the district's elementary schools this year.

In reference to the State Legislature and its annual appropriations for public education, Randolph said school superintendents statewide feel the "number one priority" in 1984 is a teacher pay increase.

The second priority is the total funding of House Bill No. Four (the Education Reform Act), the superintendent reported.

Other concerns are increases in construction and transportation allocations from the state to public school districts.

Randolph encouraged the board members to write their state representatives and senators asking them to support public school funding programs.

Mississippi Association of Educators support Mondale's presidential bid

The 13,000 member Mississippi Association of Educators reports it will support Walter Mondale for the Democratic party nomination as President in 1984.

MAE President Barbara Hogan told reporters that, "Our organization has completed a very thorough process of member involvement in making this momentous decision. Seventy-three percent of our delegates who represent our members in more than 160 local affiliates have voted to support Walter Mondale, the candidate who has established himself as a true friend of education."

MAE feels that Walter Mondale's position on increased federal commitments to public education, opposition to tuition tax credits, and a voting record in support of education during his political life were consistent with the goals of the MAE, the Mississippi affiliate of the 1.7 million member National Education Association.

Mississippi now becomes the 41st state affiliate of NEA to concur with the NEA's recommendation of support for Mondale.

"Walter Mondale is the candidate who will best assist in bringing about the necessary reforms in public education that our Association and the American public desires," commented Mrs. Hogan.

MAE, representing teachers in every county and community of Mississippi, will rely on its volunteer members to organize efforts to insure that Mondale delegates to the Democratic Convention are selected at the precinct level on March 17.

"Our early support of Walter Mondale gives MAE the ability to have its greatest impact on who will be the next President of the United States," stated MAE Vice President Alice Harden. "Election of a pro-education President is an absolute necessity if programs of 'excellence in education' are to be carried out in the decade of the 1980's," Mrs. Harden continued.

The MAE support of Walter Mondale comes on the heels of the organization's successful political efforts this fall when all five of the MAE endorsed candidates for statewide office were elected and 90% of the MAE endorsed candidates for the Mississippi Legislature won election.

"Education is a national issue, as well as a state and local issue. That is why MAE members and all citizens are being urged to support Walter Mondale who is a proven friend of education," concluded MAE President Hogan.

Power company, university co-sponsoring energy education workshop for teachers

Plans for a week-long energy education workshop for junior and senior high school science teachers in southeast Mississippi were jointly announced today by the University of Southern Mississippi and the Mississippi Power Company.

The workshop, which will carry three hours credit toward teacher recertification, is set for June 18-24 at USM's Regional Campus in Long Beach. The workshop will be underwritten by Mississippi Power Company and coordinated by the University's Department of Professional Development.

"We constantly seek to provide an educational base that will improve the quality of life for all citizens, and particularly we are concerned about the problems and future supply of energy which influence so greatly economic activity and our standard of living," USM President Aubrey K. Lucas said.

"A program of this nature will provide the University with a unique opportunity to meet the public's growing interest and concern for the production and efficient use of electrical energy. It is an excellent example of industry and education working together."

Mississippi Power Company President Alan Barton said underwriting the cost of the workshop was in the spirit of supporting and improving education in Mississippi and encouraging science teachers in our junior and senior high schools.

"Only 10 years ago, our nation was feeling the first shock waves from the OPEC embargo which created a severe energy crisis and triggered record-high inflation. We believe sponsorships of energy education workshops will help our teachers better prepare today's students to identify and meet tomorrow's energy challenges."

Dr. Donald Ray Cotten, associate professor, Department of Science Education at USM will instruct the energy workshop. A graduate of USM and West Virginia University, he has conducted numerous energy-related workshops, written articles on energy education, and is a co-author of an energy education activities guide for elementary and junior high grades.

The workshop will cover a wide range of topics such as alternate energy sources, environmental research, utility ownership and regulation, electric power generation, transmission, distribution, and energy and science education. Classroom work will be highlighted by several industry resource speakers, and several field trips during the week are planned.

School districts will be contacted in late January about the workshop and the availability of scholarships for science teachers. However, interested teachers may contact the University's Department of Professional Development or Mississippi Power Company's Public Information Department in Gulfport for information.

The 23 counties in which Mississippi Power Company serves and from which teachers will be selected for the workshop are Clarke, Forrest, George, Greene, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Jasper, Jefferson Davis, Jones, Lamar, Lauderdale, Leake, Marion, Neshoba, Newton, Pearl River, Perry, Scott, Smith, Stone, Union and Wayne.

Fort Pickens and Davis Bayou extend camping time limits

Restrictions on the length of time a party can stay in the two campgrounds at Gulf Islands National Seashore have been relaxed for periods when campground demand is diminished.

The limits for the Fort Pickens Campground in Florida and the Davis Bayou Campground in Mississippi were 14 days per party during a calendar year.

Under the new system, the 14-day limit will remain in effect for the months of March through November in the Fort Pickens Campground and January through March in the Davis Bayou Campground. At all other times, for three months in Florida and nine months in Mississippi, a 30-day limit will be in effect.

College or retirement funds with substantially reduced tax loads can be built with United States Savings Bonds purchased through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Seashore Superintendent F.D. Pridemore said this will allow greater utilization of the facilities during periods when a limit is not needed to assure a chance for everyone to find a campsite.

The 3-day limit during the slack season will be retained, he said, because National Park Service policy and regulations prohibit residing in parks and stays of longer duration tend to encourage people to put down roots and become park residents.

The limits for both campgrounds, which are 120 miles apart, will be administered separately, meaning that a party can stay its full-time limit in each of the two areas.

The limits apply both to continuous stays and to a series of shorter stays during a calendar year. No one will be permitted to stay a total of more than 30 days and no more than 14 days of that time can be within the months when the shorter limit is in effect.

During their busy seasons, both campgrounds are very popular and space may be hard to find, particularly near holidays, Pridemore said.

All campsites are assigned on a first-come, first-served basis; reservations are not taken.

The charge for use of campsites with electrical hookups, which includes all sites at Davis Bayou and about half of the Fort Pickens sites, is $10 per night. Non-electric campsites at Fort Pickens are $8 per night.

BHS Basketball Tourney starts today

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The annual three-day Bay High Basketball Tournament begins at 3:45 p.m. today at the Tiger Dome on Blue Meadow Road in Bay St. Louis.

Wilmer (Wimpy) Seymour, Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District athletic director, said Tuesday that five games are scheduled today beginning with the Pass Christian High School Girls Team playing the St. Martin High School Girls.

Today at 5 p.m. the Long Beach High School Girls Team will face the Hancock North Central High School Girls,

6:15 p.m. the Pass High Boys will play St. Martin Boys, 7:30 p.m. the Long Beach High School Boys will face the Picayune High School Boys, and at 8:45 p.m. the HNC Boys will play the St. Stanislaus

High School Team, Seymour said.

The athletic director reported four hardcourt contests are scheduled for Friday beginning at 5 p.m. when the Picayune High School Girls will play the winner of the HNC-Long Beach game, 6:15 p.m. the winner of the Pass High-St. Martin Boys game will play the winner of the Picayune-Long Beach contest, 7:30 p.m. the BHS Girls will play the winner of the St. Martin-Pass High game, and 8:45 p.m. the BHS Boys will play the winner of the HNC-SSC game.

Saturday beginning at 7 p.m. the girls final is scheduled and the boys final will start at 8:30 p.m., Seymour said. The athletic director said the Bay tournament is one of the oldest invitational events of its type on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

He said the annual basketball event helps raise money for the teams, improves the players and helps the local community.

Seymour noted the BHS Girls are undefeated thus far this season and that all the teams involved sport winning records.

"We'd like as many spectators as possible to come to the tournament," he stated.

The athletic director said ticket costs for each day of the event are $1 per student and $2 per adult.

The competitive season starts Feb. 11 and ends the last weekend of March.

Two teams from each age division will go on to compete at District Playdowns and, if successful, at State Playdowns.

Registration forms are available at Gulf Coast Waste, Waveland Small Animal Hospital, and the Wine Seller.

Age group commissioners are Roselin Watson, Under 8, 467-5643; Kathy Edwards, Under 10, 467-0176; Paul Raymond, Under 12, 255-9485; Mike Richardson, Under 14-16, 467-3170; and JoAnn Duncan, Girls, 533-7981.

EARLY ACTION

In action this past weekend exhibition games continued as teams prepare for the spring season.

Dental Health Service played a doubleheader against Ocean Springs in the U-12 division, Alcan Cable hosted Ocean Springs in U-16, and Bay-Waveland Tire played Long Beach in U-14.

Dental Health Service scored a goal in the last minute of play in the opening game to gain a 1-1 tie.

The second game, however, Ocean Springs was able to fight off the home team to earn a 3-0 win.

In the afternoon game Alcan Cable held Ocean Springs to a 0-0 tie at halftime due to the fine goalkeeping by Clinton Edwards, but in the second half Ocean Springs pushed across two goals to win 2-0.

In a rain-shortened game on Sunday, Bay-Waveland Tire had a relatively easy time against its Long Beach opponent as Richard Gleber, David Warman and Jimmy Strong scored goals for a 3-0 victory. Each team played shorthanded.

USM track team prepares for State Invitational

Southern Mississippi's indoor track team resumed practice Monday in preparation for their second start of the season in the Mississippi State Invitational, scheduled Jan. 21 at the Jackson Coliseum.

Southern Mississippi Coach Marshall Bell said he will have entrants in both track and field, and in two divisions in which competition will be paired in the second major meet of the state's indoor track season.

Bell, whose team won the Jackson State Invitational Dec. 3, said this year's agenda will include both open and invitational divisions.

He said entrants must qualify to make the invitational meet.

Donnie Young, the Eagle's best sprinter the past three years, Jackson sophomore Ples Wilkerson and Porterville freshman Donte Clark will attempt to qualify for the 60-yard dash in the invitational division.

Bell said all-Metro Conference cross country runner David Schexnayder of Biloxi will compete in the invitational mile run.

In the invitational two-mile run, USM will have Hattiesburg's Mitchell Williams, Gulfport's Willis Mitchell, Michael Dent of Madison, and Schexnayder.

"We will also enter Gilbert Bryant in the 60-yard high hurdles," Bell said. Bryant is from Biloxi's St. Martin.

Bell said other members of the Southern squad will compete in the open division's 600 meter run.

Bell said he expects his team to do well although a four-week layout could be a factor. "I hope our kids continue to work and progress when resumes to achieve the condition they reached prior to the holidays."

The meet will kick off at noon with open division competition followed at 6 p.m. by the invitational events.

USM coach reports baseball schedule

Southern Mississippi's Golden Eagle baseball squad under first-year coach Hill Denson will open the season at home on Feb. 18 against Livingston University, according to the schedule released by USM Athletic Director Roland Dale.

That game is the first of 53 regular season contests that the Eagles will play in 1984.

The schedule is highlighted by games with metro Conference foes Memphis State, Florida State and Tulane.

The Eagles will also face Southeastern Conference powers Ole Miss, Mississippi State, Louisiana State and Alabama during the spring.

USM will face Livingston, Louisiana State, Southeastern Louisiana, Nicholls State, Alabama, Tulane, Florida State, Mississippi College and Memphis State in a home-and-home series; play games against Ole Miss, Northeast

Louisiana, Mississippi State and Southwestern Louisiana on the road only; and battle Alabama-Birmingham, Chicago State, North Park and Delta State at home.

Denson has 16 lettermen returning from last year's club that posted a disappointing 11-33 record.

"This has got to be the toughest schedule that USM has ever played," Denson commented.

"We have 29 games against teams that made it to the NCAA regional or better and Alabama was the national runnerup last season. Plus the Metro Conference should be even stronger this season. It should be very exciting."

The Eagles will play in the Metro Conference Championships at Tallahassee, Fla. May 10-13.

SAVE TAX DOLLARS WHILE THERE'S STILL TIME.

Even as you read this message, time is ticking away toward April 15. But Hancock Bank has a plan that can help you cut the taxes you'll pay this year and provide for your retirement.

It's the Hancock Bank Individual Retirement Account, and with it, you can earn interest and defer taxes until your retirement. An individual can set aside up to $2,000, and a working couple can set aside up to $4,000... tax free! And you can do this even if you're covered by another pension plan. Ask your Hancock representative how an easy-to-open IRA can delay tax day. But hurry... time is running out! And don't forget: right now, your IRA can be eligible for 1983 tax benefits.

Substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

SPINAL CURVATURE CAN SAP YOUR HEALTH

Scientific Chiropractic has gained much knowledge regarding the causes and cures of spinal curvatures. Curvatures of the spine can be so great that one can easily see the person is twisted. Others are very slight, but many curvatures are responsible for aches, pains, and poor health. A curvature of the spine slows the adult person down and saps away his energy and strength and even his resistance, making him always feel tired, fatigued, and robbing him of much good health and the long life he would enjoy. Chiropractic research has brought out the technical skills necessary to correct the majority of these spinal curvatures. As a result, children no longer need to go through life with a crooked back, and adults, too, can have the structural stability of their spines restored. Correction of these conditions helps to bring forth a surge of new pep and vitality, energy and strength which go to make up the ingredients of good health.

Art and crafts solicited for state's Fair pavilion

Mississippi artists and craftsmen are invited to submit applications for participation in two distinct programs for the Mississippi Pavilion at the 1984 World's Fair in New Orleans, May 12 - Nov. 11.

The first, "Images '84," is an on-site exhibition which will be installed for the entire six months of the Fair.

Mississippi artists who were either born or reside in the state are eligible to enter this all-media juried competition. According to Libby Hitt, manager for the two programs, preliminary judging will be made on the basis of 35 mm slides by a panel of jurors consisting of Tom Dewey, II, associate professor, Department of Art and Art History, University of Mississippi; Lawrence A. Jones, chairman and professor (retired), Department of Art, Jackson State University; and Malcolm M. Norwood, chairman and professor, Department of Art, Delta State University.

Hitt says all Mississippi artists are encouraged to submit their work for consideration in this non-fee exhibition before their entry deadline of Jan. 28.

Application can be obtained by calling 1-800-962-1984 toll free, or writing to Mississippi World's Fair Council, Inc., c/o "Images '84," PO Box 849, Jackson 39205.

The second exhibition program, "Craft Visions '84," will provide Mississippi craftsmen with an opportunity to demonstrate their talent to thousands of people attending the Fair each day.

While working in a specially designed space in the state's world-class Pavilion, Mississippi craftsmen will help to demonstrate the rich cultural heritage found in Mississippi crafts.

All craftsmen residing in the state are eligible to submit slides of their work for the review process. "Craft Visions '84" will include work in the areas of clay, fiber, glass, jewelry, leather, metal, wood and combinations.

Mississippi craftsmen interested in participating in "Craft Visions '84" should call 1-800-962-1984 or write Manager of "Craft Visions '84," Mississippi World's Fair Council, Inc., P.O. Box 849, Jackson 39205.

The deadline for entry in "Craft Visions '84" is Jan. 20.

ULTRASOUND—Cathy Drolla, RT, performs an ultrasound procedure on a patient, a service now being provided at Hancock General Hospital. Previously patients had to be transported to Gulfport for the test.

HGH installs ultrasound

Hancock General Hospital recently opened a new ultrasound room, according to Phil Langston, hospital administrator.

Ultrasonography is the use of sound waves to produce an image or photograph of an organ or tissue for diagnostic and therapeutic purposes.

The procedure is used very extensively in gynecology work to look on the fetal heart motion, position of the placenta and to project the fetal age. "Ultrasound can even show a picture of the fetus at its earliest stages of development, Langston explained.

The process of ultrasound is also used in finding tumors or cysts in the liver, kidneys and pancreas; to confirm stones in the gallbladder or common bile duct; to diagnose aneurysms in the aorta; and to find tumors or cysts in the pelvis, uterus or ovaries, he continued.

"Ultrasound produces the image on conventional x-ray film, while at the same time projecting the image on a television screen," said Cathy Drolla, radiological technician, "but there is absolutely no radiation exposure to the patient or the employee."

The ultrasound room at Hancock General is a division of the radiology department, and all tests are interpreted by radiologists.

Colly developing first Bay condominium complex

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A local developer has constructed the first three condominiums ever built in Bay St. Louis and plans to build 20 more in a $1.75 million project. Maurice Colly of Bay St. Louis says his Sunset Place Townhomes at the corner of Sunset Drive and US-90 are the first condominiums built here.

He plans to build the remaining condominiums in phases within the next 18 months.

The completed condominium complex will be six buildings each containing three to four townhouse-type units, he says.

Colly feels his prime prospective buyers are businessmen, working couples, single professionals and persons planning to retire soon.

He admits the $75,000 price tag on each of the two-story, 1 1/2-bath, 1,600-square-foot dwellings may at first seem to be a little high, but believes the 'additional touches not ordinarily found' in condominiums justify that cost.

He says those extras included in the purchase price are oak stairwells, kitchen trash compactors, refrigerators with ice makers and cold water dispensers, self-cleaning ovens, whirlpool baths, pull-down stairways to large attic storage areas, skylights in bathrooms, commercial grade carpeting, solid vinyl floor tile, 20-year fiberglass roof shingles, thermal doors and windows, heat pumps, stove vent hoods which exhaust outside, intercoms with AM-FM radio, low-maintenance brick veneer exterior, wiring for telephones and cable television, firewalls between each unit and two parking spaces for each townhouse.

He explains the only exterior portions of the townhouses which would need maintenance are small front lawn areas and shrubbery, after several years the wood trim should be painted, and in some 10 years the paved parking lot should be resealed.

"We've done everything to keep maintenance down. The 23 property owners would elect a board of directors who would make decisions regarding landscape maintenance and an escrow account will be established for exterior maintenance of the buildings," Colly states.

He reports there are no plans for building a swimming pool at the complex because that would add greatly to residents' monthly maintenance costs.

Colly says his years of experience in the engineering field allowed him to design the townhouses himself.

He feels these townhouses represent an innovative housing alternative and a boost to the city economy.

"These spacious townhomes have been designed to provide the ultimate in comfort, freedom from upkeep worries and economy in energy expenses," Colly states.

"The location offers convenience to all churches, shopping and restaurants, and close proximity to the Gulf without hurricane worries," he says.

"Sunset Drive is one of the best residential streets in Bay St. Louis," he adds.

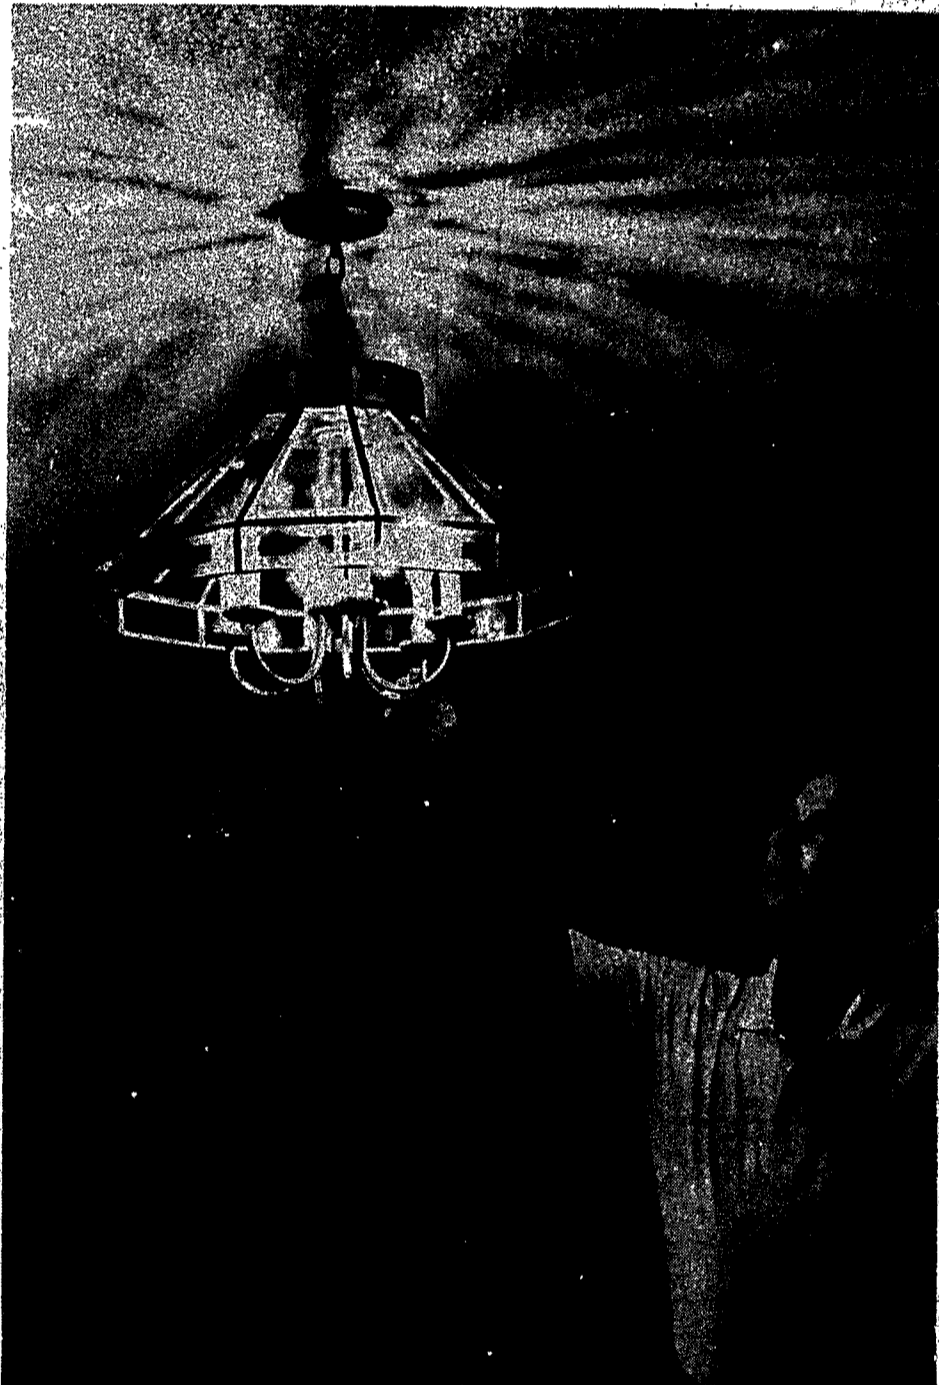

Balboa Services, Inc. of Gulfport is the general contractor for the $1.75 million project, he notes.

The developer reports the townhouses qualify for conventional or Veterans Administration financing.

FRONT ENTRANCE—Maurice Colly, a Bay St. Louis developer, stands in the front entrance of one of three condominiums he recently completed in a $1.75 million project in

Library institutes computer program

The Hancock County Library System has announced a new service called the Compass Project, a computer-assisted skills program for persons who want to improve basic educational skills either for self-enrichment or to pass the GED; return to high school; gain better employment; or enter college or vocational schools.

Developed by Prima Wusnack, library system director, and Rebecca Mitum-Keefer, children's services librarian, the Compass Project will enable the public to schedule time to use pre-packaged educational computer programs on the headquarter's library microcomputers.

With these programs, an individual can work at his own pace to improve basic skills in language arts, math, or other areas.

Language arts programs available include letter recognition; reading comprehension; spelling; and grammar. Programs for improving math skills include counting, addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division, as well as algebra, fractions, and decimals.

Also available are programs that teach how to count money and make change; United States geography; typing; speed reading; and an introduction to word processing. Additional computer programs will be added in the coming weeks according to Keefer and Wusnack, and plans are being made to offer the service at the Waveland Library in the near future.

"We're excited about this service," said Wusnack, "because it offers an alternative way of learning for the out-of-school young adult or adult." "However, it can also be used as a supplement to basic education classes or college remedial courses a person may be taking."

"We feel that computers can be a valuable tool in teaching skills for they are just, impartial, and force people to do things right," she continued.

"Yet they are easy to operate when using a pre-packaged educational program; and allow an individual to start at his own level and progress at his own pace."

To use the service, persons must be 16 or older and not enrolled in high school. They must have or obtain a valid library card and attend a one-hour Compass Project User's Workshop. Wusnack points out that the workshop is not a computer programming class, but a training session to teach people how to use the pre-packaged educational programs on the library's microcomputers. She stresses that absolutely no knowledge of computers is necessary to take the workshop or use the service.

After completing the workshop, participants will receive a Compass card that will allow them to schedule computer time whenever they want to work on the skills they need to improve.

Workshops have been scheduled for Monday, Jan. 23 and 30, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. and on Wednesday, Jan. 25 and Feb. 1, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The workshops will be limited to 15 people and those interested in participating should pre-register by calling 467-5282.

Additional workshops will be announced at a later date.

The Compass Project is funded by the Hancock County Library System and a Library Services and Construction Act grant through the Mississippi Library Commission.

Southern Association accredits DeLisle

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, through its Commission on Elementary Schools, has awarded continuing accreditation to DeLisle Elementary School by action taken during the association's recent 88th Annual Meeting in New Orleans.

Through accreditation, school staff and faculty members will benefit by knowing that conditions for teaching in accredited schools meet certain minimum standards and that efforts are continuously made to improve these conditions. Regional standards require adequate facilities and facilities and their effective use.

Citizens are assured of accountability and of value for their tax dollars through the process of standard setting and the regular reevaluation of SACS member institutions. Communities with accredited schools can be confident that their institutions compare favorably with others in the region. Accredited schools are a "plus" for those who are interested in relocating their families and businesses.

Founded in 1895, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is one of six regional accrediting bodies in the United States.

Time equates love in children's eyes

By Norine Barnes
Child Development Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

A father once said to his young son, "Joe, I love you." Little Joe answered, "Daddy, I don't want your love, I just want you to go out and fly my kite with me."

Young children, of course, need to be told that they are loved, but remember that children live very concrete lives. They need practical examples of a parent's love.

In most cases the time we spend with a child will speak much louder than any words we could ever say.

Joe was saying to his father, "Show me you love me by spending a little of your valuable time with me."

Set aside some time on a regular basis and spend it with your child.

The secret of making this time of the best quality is to give the child your complete attention. Its value is destroyed if a father pretends to play blocks with his toddler while trying to scan the evening paper.

It is not necessary to spend a long period of time but it is important to give undivided attention to the child.

When a parent gives this kind of time, the child's self-concept grows. The message is: you are so important to me that I choose to share my time with you.

A good self-concept is more valuable than anything else a child has or will ever have.

If he has a high self-concept, he is likely to do well in school, in making friends and in life.

On the other hand, if the self-concept is low, the child is just as likely to have problems of varying kinds.

GCRL slates seafood sanitation workshop

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory will present a Seafood Processors Sanitation Workshop on Tuesday, Jan. 24, from 2-4 p.m. The workshop will be at the J. L. Scott Marine Education Center on GCRL's Biloxi campus.

Dr. David W. Cook, who is in charge of the Seafood Quality and Technology Laboratory, said that the workshop will be open to all seafood processors and anyone else interested in seafood plant sanitation.

During the workshop general information will be presented on the need for sanitation, cleaning and sanitizing procedures, and the selection of detergents and sanitizers for specific tasks. Representatives from the State Health Department and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration will be available to answer questions concerning regulations pertaining to sanitation in the seafood industry.

Several firms that distribute cleaning and sanitizing supplies have been invited to display their products and provide information on them to the seafood processors. This will be an excellent opportunity for the processors to express their specific needs to the distributors and find out about products that best meet those needs.

The product distributors also will benefit by learning more about what is involved in seafood plant sanitation so that they are better able to meet the needs of the seafood industry, Cook said.

For more information about the workshop, contact Angela Dicharry, Seafood Quality & Technology Laboratory, J. L. Scott Marine Education Center, Biloxi, MS, 39520 (Telephone 374-5550), or Dr. David W. Cook, head, microbiology section, Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Ocean Springs, MS, 39564 (Telephone 875-2244).

The second semester of college credit courses on Mississippi ETV officially begins the weekend of Jan. 20. ETV will be airing courses in American government and English composition and will be rebroadcasting the courses "Making It Count," "Interaction" and "Mainstreaming the Exceptional Child." The GED-TV Series will start up once again, and a new non-credit series, "The New Literacy," enters the schedule with an introduction to computers.

"The New Literacy: An Introduction to Computers" has been described as a "state-of-the-art television series." Its purpose is to demystify the computer world. Two lessons can be seen each week: at 10 and 10:30 p.m. Fridays, beginning Jan. 20.

This series will be aired for personal enrichment and general viewing. No college credit will be offered. All other courses listed below will be offered for credit.

"American Government I" covers the United States Constitution. The course examines the complexity of American federalism and the role of citizenship. Two lessons can be seen each week: at 2 and 2:30 p.m. Saturdays, beginning Jan. 21. "English Composition I" provides instruction in improving one's writing. The lessons involve analyzing sentence and paragraph structure, looking up words to check spellings and meanings, finding the subject for a sentence, and discriminating between appropriate and inappropriate styles. Two lessons can be seen each week: at 3 and 3:30 p.m. Saturdays, beginning Jan. 21.

"Interaction" presents programs that are designed to assist all school personnel in increasing their understanding and respect for human and cultural similarities and differences in a pluralistic society. Two lessons can be seen each week: at 3:30 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, beginning Jan. 22.

Moon astronaut speak at UNO

Harrison (Jack) Schmitt, one of the last astronauts to walk on the moon, will discuss "Civilization in Space and Time" Thursday, January 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the University of New Orleans.

The talk, which will be held in the ballroom of the UNO University Center, is part of a Silver Anniversary Lecture Series, honoring UNO's opening year in 1958-59. It is free and open to the public.

A former U.S. senator, Schmitt was an astronaut in 1965 to 1975. Backup module pilot for Apollo 17, he first journeyed into space in 1972 on the Apollo 17 mission to the moon.

He became chief of scientist-astronauts of NASA in 1974, accumulating 2,100 hours flying time in jets, helicopters and spacecraft. In that same year, he was also appointed NASA's assistant administrator for energy programs. Schmitt served as a U.S. senator from New Mexico from 1977 to 1983.

A consulting geologist, Schmitt is currently conducting research on the Anasazi Pueblos in Chaco Canyon, New Mexico. The cliff-dweller ruins represent the highest development in Pueblo prehistoric civilization.

Schmitt received a bachelor of science degree from the California Institute of Technology in 1957, studied under a Fulbright fellowship at the University of Oslo, Norway, in 1957-58, and received his doctorate in geology from Harvard University in 1964.

While at UNO, Schmitt will also address classes in earth sciences and political science on Friday, Jan. 27.

The teacher education hoax

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, part two of a three-part series, is the result of a project funded by the Mississippi Press Association. The opinions expressed are those of the author and not those of either organization.

By David Hicks
Former Headmaster
St. Mark's School of Texas

Teacher education institutions bear much of the blame for the poor quality of instruction in our schools.

Unfortunately, such a statement threatens people's jobs and their cherished assumptions about themselves and their contributions to society, to the next generation, to scholarship and all that.

For this reason, educational institutions are singing a new harmony to the state legislatures, although the melody is the same.

In the last decade, teacher education institutions, wishing to expand their income and influence and believing in their own efficacy, called for more students.

This call came in the form of lobbying legislators to require more and more education course work for teacher certification. The legislators, seeing golden cloth where there wasn't any, obliged.

Education programs boomed.

Liberal arts programs suffered, and the quality of instruction in our elementary and secondary schools declined.

Now, the harmony has shifted from quantity to quality. Give us better students, the educational experts plead.

This is a risky strategy on their part, for it amounts to a wholesale admission that education programs have become an attraction and shelter for many young people who probably have no business in college in the first place.

Statistics such as those released in Vanderbilt College Handbook, 1981-82, bear this out. The average ACT scores for its four student categories are: Engineering 27, Arts and Sciences 26, Nursing 23 and Education 21.

Convinced of the limited value of education study, the University of California at Berkeley decided recently to close its School of Education, which was widely regarded as one of the ten best in the U.S.

Only two years ago, Duke's board of trustees also decided to abolish the University's Department of Education. When asked for the reason, a spokesman simply replied, "It is not distinguishing."

In the 1981 summer issue of Daedalus, Dean J. Myron Atkin of Stanford's School of Education was quoted as saying, "It is doubtful if as many as two dozen of the 1,200 institutions that prepare teachers are maintaining programs that a bright youngster would find demanding."

This in-house appraisal illustrates what every undergraduate has known for years, that an easy course and a good grade can always be found in the Education Department. The work there is not demanding, but as far as a college diploma goes, a major in education is as good as a major in physics, and state certification requirements give it a patina that the physics degree does not possess—an exclusive entree to the teaching profession.

Because teacher certification requirements in many states, and with special vehemence in Mississippi, require teachers to take a preponderance of education and other non-content courses, they bar from the classroom would-be teachers who have pursued content learning in the traditional liberal arts.

The effect of these requirements is to permit only the weakest college graduates, those drawn off the bottom of the barrel, to enter the teaching profession.

Will raising the academic requirements for admission to teacher education institutions solve this problem?

It is perhaps enough to respond to this question with other questions, such as: Will raising entrance requirements change what is taught in these schools? Will it change the fact that facile education courses supplant rigorous content courses in the teacher preparation curriculum?

How does raising entrance requirements respond to the reasons for which weak students flock to education programs? How does raising entrance requirements attract better students to the programs, particularly when good students are going to be turned off by the boring and mechanical nature of what education courses presume to teach?

In fact, raising entrance standards does not come near the root of the problem—the fraudulent view that education is a science that can be taught to virtually anyone, as opposed to an art that can be mastered only by those with an aptitude for it through a system of apprenticeship combining theoretical and practical elements. As a solution, it conveniently leaves the educational bureaucracy unscathed and promises to graduate better students merely by weeding out weaker students. Is this what education is all about?

The move to raise entrance requirements for schools and departments of education may block the path of certain egregious candidates into the teaching profession, but it will do nothing to attract better teachers or to send truly educated young people back into the schools throughout our state.

The first step in achieving these high ideals would be to abolish the state's undergraduate schools and departments of education and to use the saving in public funds to strengthen and consolidate the state's liberal arts colleges and create a unique State Teacher's Institute.

A discussion of the State Teachers Institute follows in the next article.

WLOX-TV MANAGER RETIRES—Thomas B. (Blue) Majure, executive vice-president and general manager of WLOX-TV, retired Jan. 1. He began his career with WLOX radio in 1947 and served in a variety of capacities. He was promoted to executive vice-president and general manager in 1975. WLOX Broadcasting Company President John Hash says Majure "personally rebuilt both the radio and television facilities following disastrous fires and hurricanes."

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.

Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION - Bongs, roach clips, and coke spoons are as familiar as blue jeans to kids in the U.S. today, who receive a liberal education from "head shops." Head shops are stores where paraphernalia that can be used for illicit drugs is openly sold to children and adults alike. What is the estimated annual income of the drug paraphernalia business?

a) $3 billion
b) $300 million
c) $30 million
d) $3 million

ANSWER - The drug paraphernalia business in this country is estimated at between $1 billion and $3 billion annually. It is apparently a periscope showing above the submerged illicit drug industry which, according to the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency, had retail sales in 1978 of $50-$60 billion.

Correct answer - a.

QUESTION - In 1973, Mexican marijuana samples averaged little more than one-tenth of one percent. Delta-9 THC (tetrahydrocannabinol), the principle psychoactive ingredient. But by 1979, the average strength of the marijuana had risen considerably. How much stronger is the marijuana being smoked in the U.S. today than it was in 1973?

a) Twice the strength
b) Four times stronger
c) Eight times stronger
d) Ten times stronger

ANSWER - According to Dr. Robert C. Petersen, assistant director of research, National Institute on Drug Abuse, the average strength today has risen to almost 2% THC, with some Columbian products now averaging over 4% THC. This is ten to twenty times more potent than the marijuana being smoked a few years ago.

Correct answer - d.
